8 Reasons Why Canopy Hoods are Tops for Kiln Ventilation

3-Year
Warranty

- Hoods positioned above the kiln capture the upward flow of hot air and fumes.
- Does not upset the firing balance.
- No cold spots.
- No delay in heat-up; no reduction in firing temperature.
- No motor vibration.
- No modification of kiln.
- Available in both positive and negative pressure systems.
- A canopy hood is the recommended way to vent fumes, meeting applicable OSHA standards.
